

UC SANTA CRUZ

Institute for Social Transformation

PRESENTS

Sanctuary Spaces: Reworlding the West in the Age of White Nationalism

Tuesday, February 11, 2020
from 12:00 to 1:15 PM
Rachel Carson College Red Room
Brown Bag Lunch

A TALK WITH

Ananya Roy

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, LOS ANGELES

PROFESSOR OF URBAN PLANNING, SOCIAL WELFARE, AND GEOGRAPHY

DIRECTOR OF THE INSTITUTE ON INEQUALITY AND DEMOCRACY

At a time of resurgent white nationalism and organized right-wing violence, sanctuary jurisdictions have emerged as an important terrain of struggle. This talk undertakes a critical interrogation of sanctuary and thereby of philosophies of Western humanism and humanitarianism that underpin the terms of protection for racial others. Attentive to colonial relationalities, the talk foregrounds multiple histories and formations of fugitivity, refuge, and rebellion that make possible a reworlding of the West as the space of sanctuary.

Co-sponsored by:
the Sociology Department,
Politics Department,
& History of Consciousness Department

more info:
santacruz.institute.ucsc.edu

COMMUNITY & CONVERSATION

